TOUR TESTED PLAYER APPROVED

Nestled deep in the heart of the lush splendor of historic Williamsburg and boarded by the James River's tranquil blue waters is where you will find the famous River Course at Kingsmill Resort.

For more than a quarter of a century, the fairways and greens of this Pete Dye gem challenged a who's who of the PGA champions of past and present.

In 2005 the River Course underwent a design renaissance as part of a multi-million dollar renovation in 2005 overseen by the original course architect, Pete Dye, the final result is pure perfection. A look that is timeless with flawless conditions, and a range of holes for all skill levels.

THE PLANTATION COURSE

The Plantation Course is an Arnold Palmer and Ed Seay design that challenges players of all skill levels. The 6,432-yard par 72 course favors accurate iron play and good putting.

Fairway landing areas are generous, but water comes into play on eight holes and there is no shortage of deep woods of yawning ravines. Greens are large and provide inviting targets for approach shots. Once on the putting surface, undulations and swales make getting down in two a satisfying accomplishment.

With landmarks from Richard Kingsmill's 1736 plantation woven into the landscape, a round on the Plantation Course is truly historic.

THE WOODS COURSE

FULL GOLF ONLY

Golf course architect Tom Clark designed this course in concert with two-time U.S. Open champion Curtis Strange. The Woods Course is a classic parkland-style design that occupies a secluded corner of the resort.

The Woods Course is an instant hit with golfers. In a recent Zagat Survey, the Woods Course was named one of America's Top Golf Courses.

The Woods Course is a 6,659-yard layout with an interesting mix of long and short holes, giving golfers the opportunity to use every club in their bag. A unique feature is the double green with a bunker in the center shared by a par-3 12th hole and the par-4 15th hole. The Woods Course is a delight to play, time after time.
